Some Strategies for Anxiety with Doone Estey

- ✚ Exercise
- ✚ One on one time with parent
- ✚ Affection
- ✚ Routine, schedule, lists, procedure on fridge
- ✚ Sleep
- ✚ Deep breathing, yoga, meditation, visualization
- ✚ Find a buddy for child and groups like TAEG for parents
- ✚ Do science projects on allergies and enlist teacher support and peers' help
- ✚ Organize, prepare, preview for situations, medical procedures (exposure desensitizes)
- ✚ Give children responsibility, control, ownership, choices
- ✚ Calm down space – chair, fairy lights, book, music, snack
- ✚ Role play – What would you do if? (someone makes fun, they are offered food, after an episode, going for testing)
- ✚ Talk during an activity or at bedtime with the lights out to uncover hidden anxieties
- ✚ Don't dismiss, reflective listen, empathize, validate, brainstorm, problem solve
- ✚ Parent does all of the above for self and role models for child
- ✚ Get a pet?

Let them own it as much as possible. Empower them by teaching skills.

Demystify, discuss, be non-judgmental, normalize, let them tell their story.

Emphasize that allergies are manageable, that they can handle it, and that you have confidence in them.

SNAP – Stop Now And Plan – encourage child to stop and think while snapping fingers.
